London North West University
Healthcare NHS Trust

Jemma is a speciality registrar doctor in General Surgery in North West London and Clinical Research Fellow for the National Bowel Cancer Audit. She has recently completed her PhD at the London School of Hygiene & Tropical Medicine. The thesis involves the use of large routinely collected datasets to explore the use and outcomes of multimodal treatment for colorectal cancer, with a particular focus on systemic anti-cancer therapy. Through the NBOCA she is involved with a number of other projects including an international colorectal cancer collaborative, and work evaluating the impact of COVID-19 on colorectal cancer care, and rectal cancer volumes, specialisation and competition.
